It's no problem at all. Responses are stressful and it's all good. I'm doing fine and don't need a break. But will let you know if I do get to that point.

Wendy still can't get on email. Most of our lan ports quit working. IT is trying to fix.

I haven't seen any sediment data yet, background or otherwise.

You have both been working pretty hard. I don't want to overwhelm you. When you need to take a break, let me know so I can rotate someone else into your slot. I know I am certainly getting burned (sorry I yelled). But, we are getting over the hump. I am curious about how the sediment compares with background.
